of the opinion that the establishment of a junior republic for the boys and girls of Washington and Baltimore would be a most beneficial thing. "Personally," said Mr. Wight, "I know but little of such an institution, but from what I have been told of the one in New York and from what I have read of it, I am convinced of its great practical importance and value. It appears that the children are not only taught self reliance and patriotism, but also taught that without energy, enterprise and labor no one can really succeed in life. It is an enterprise which should receive, as I doubt not it will, the support of every one who is interested in the welfare of our youth.'

Judge Kimball Favors It.

"The George junior republic," said Judge I. G. Kimball of the Police Court, "is a grand, good thing, and something I have watched since it was first started. The hope of this country depends upon the boys Alexander Mackey-Smith, rector, Services: S a.m. holy communion; 11 o'clock, merning George junior republic not only teaches. patriotism, but the boys learn through i the responsibility of good government, the making of laws, and places their execution upon their shoulders. I have never seen the republic in practical operation, but from what I have learned of it I have become most favorably impressed with the idea. I think some such institution should be started by every large city in this country. They should be maintained by munici-pal funds, and should have at the head men of the highest character, who would go into the work on account of their love of into the work on account of their love of children, and because of their love of coun-try and its future. There has never been a time when patriotism has been so thor-oughly taught as it was during the past year. No boy is fit for the duties of manyear. No boy is fit for the duties of man-hood until he has been thoroughly educated how to govern himself with love of country and love of humanity. And all of these, as I understand the George junior republic, are instilled in the boys by its work.

Commissioner Ross. District Commissioner John W. Ross said: "I heartily approve the plan embodied in the George junior republic of dealing with the youth of our cities who tend to pauperism and crime. Our courts commit many boys of tender age, who are convicted of minor offenses, to the workhouse. The pro-eedure is wholly unwise, and is utterly de-void of reformatory results. Such chil-dren are placed among vile associates, and all their self-respect is destroyed.

"The junior republic seems to be intend-ed to proceed upon the theory that there is in every child a tendency to do that which is right and honorable, which only needs to be averaged in needs to be appealed to and encouraged in order to have that part of his nature dominate and control his character. I believe in that theory. It teaches reliance on one's own abilities, and encourages the child to strive to labor and imposes penalties for refusal to work which do not tend to de-grade in the manner which pertains to commitment to a workhouse. It places them amid clean and wholesome surroundings, and gives them easy first lessons in citizenship.

"I have the greatest interest in the pro-"I have the greatest interest in the proposed establishment of such an institution in the vicinity of Washington and Baltimore. There are bundreds of public-spirited citizens of means in each of these cities who would. I believe, gladly contribute to its establishment and support."

No Money for Printing. Practically all the work of the war inves-

Foreign Affairs.

The eightieth birthday of Queen Victoria was celebrated in London and elsewhere throughout the united kingdom. An international tuberculosis conference was opened in Berlin. The Nicaraguan government raised the state of siege at Bluefields, recalling General Torres and his troops, Pre-mier Pelloux stated in the Italian parliament that negotiations for the grant of the San Mun Bay concession would be resumed with China; ex-Premier Crispi caused great excitement in the chamber of deputies by asking permission to explain the circum-stances of the Italian defeat in Abyssinia. The American Liner Paris ran aground on the Manacles, near Land's End, England, no lives were lost, but the steamer seemed to be doomed to destruction. Among those who died were Emilio Castelar, former president of Spain, and Rosa Bonheur, the famous painter.

In the District. A jubilee to commemorate the victories of the United States in the war with Spain was held by the people of Washington, covering three days, and embracing many unique features. The work of clearing the site for the new government printing office building was begun. It was reported from Baltimore that the stock of the City and Suburban railroad had been sold to the syndicate controlling all other street railroads in the District except the Capi-tal Traction system. Armistcad Taylor, the slayer of Policeman Passau, was sur-rendered to the Maryland authorities to be tried for the murders at Sildell. George W. Horton was convicted of murder. Mrs. Ada Hardy was criminally assaulted at her home near the Loughborough road, in the county; Charles Busey, colored, was arrested on suspicion. What the children want is somebody to take care of them. Kathryn says her parents live in Alexandria, and the police received word from the Alexandria authorities that they don't want her. Louise belongs in this city. Her mother is dead, and so far as the police have been advised, her father does not want her. For the past five or six months the girls have been in the House of Mercy, on K street. Yesterday they left the institution and started out in the world to look out for themselves. They were dressed in the blue garments of the were dressed in the blue garments of the House of Mercy when they reached North-east Washington last night, and went to the house of a citizen, where they had been told they might possibly get employment. ON REGULAR SCHEDULE. Electric Cars Operated on Branch of City and Suburban.

Electric care are running today on the east and west line of the City and Suburban street railroad on a regular schedule The underground electric system, which has just been installed, is now in order and it is thought the future operation of the road by electricity will go on without interruption. In beginning the use of a system such as this, which requires skill and care in adjusting the various parts, there are always some hitches which cause delay, and in this particular instance there is no exception to the general rule. Beginning tomorrow electric cars will also be run on a regular schedule between Eckington and Hyattsville. The line from the Catholic University and Eckington through to 15th and 6 streets northwest and to the Pennsylvania depot will be completed as soon as the company is able to get the iron needed for the section in Eck In the opinion of experts who have inspected the work on this road it is the most substantial that has yet been built in this city. The iron yokes and rails are heavier than similar work used on the other
